Commit to engaging in more Cultural Education

More education is going to take you very far in life. Invest in growing your inclusive leadership skills in service of creating more inclusive cultures.

Try out Different Vehicles for Learning

Webinars, podcasts, and audio books provide additional ways for consuming new knowledge. Check Eventbrite to find webinar offerings. Check YouTube also. Don't just settle for the one and done live classroom. Learn wherever you go.

Engage in Diverse Conferences as a Panelist, Speaker, Participant

Not sure what to do to make a difference. Did you know you can take advantage of growing your cultural competency by changing the way you view conference/event participation? Challenge yourself to participate in more diverse conferences.

Integrate Inclusion into Professional Development Plans

Everyone should have a professional development plan. Planning how you will grow is a good strategy to leverage in your career. When you're creating that plan, be sure to include some training for inclusive leadership. Try out our inclusion bootcamp course.

Change your Networking Style

Assess your behaviors when networking. Flex your style. Challenge yourself to diversify who you are networking with. Check your LinkedIn profile for some insights on the individuals you are connected with. Who are you following? Who do you engage with?
